Boitano's Lounge by Brian Boitano

As one of America's best known sports stars of the 1980s and 90s, Brian Boitano captured his first U.S. national title in 1985 and, in addition to Olympic gold, went on to win four U.S. Championships, two World Championships, and more professional titles than any skater in sport's history.

He has amassed a total of 50 titles, written two books, produced 30 critically-acclaimed television specials and won a prime-time Emmy for his starring role in the movie Carmen on Ice, with Katarina Witt. The publication of Brian's cookbook "What Would Brian Boitano Make?" and his redesign of the Boitano family's ancestral home in Favale di Malvaro, Italy, led to his own shows on HGTV, the Cooking Channel and The Food Network.

From his early days of training on the ice, Brian's fascination with the culinary arts and creating his own signature cocktails began to unfold, and he had always dreamed of opening his own restaurant. If his successful entry into the hospitality industry with Boitano's Lounge is any indication, it will not be his last.
